Marsha Papay-Gomola

Marsha Papay-Gomola has taught needlework at regional and national seminars for EGA, NAN, TNNA, The Sampler Gathering and Christmas in Williamsburg. She has been published in Fine Lines, NeedleArts and Sampler and Antique Needlework. In 2008 she received the Jean Taggart Award and The Exemplary Award from the National Academy of Needlearts. In March of 2009 Marsha received NAN certification, Level II in Raised Embroidery. Her expertise piece has been placed in the NAN permanent collection. She specializes in raised embroidery, emphasizing the use of silk shading to create realistic contemporary designs.

The Golden Rules

1. No food or beverage in meeting room until stitching is safely put away.
2. Kindly address your questions to the teacher and not to your fellow stitchers. There are no dumb questions.
3. Do not talk or whisper while your teacher is giving instructions; give her your full attention.
4. If your teacher does not mind conversation while you are stitching, please do so quietly.
5. Ask permission prior to photographing any of the teacher's samples or finished pieces.
6. TURN OFF CELL PHONES !

Following these rules makes for maximum instruction and minimum confusion, plus happy stitchers and an instructor who looks forward to coming back!
